
IDENTIFYING SPECIAL POPULATIONS

Schools across the country are preparing to formally identify students in Special Population Subgroups under new provisions in the federal education law of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and the Carl D. Perkins V Career & Technical Education Act. The academic progress and achievement of subgroups are closely monitored and reported at the state and federal level. The data obtained will not identify individual students but will show how subgroups perform compared to each other and the overall student population. To prepare for this new requirement, please fill out the survey below.
